Another school year is winding down and another class of Londonderry High School students has completed its 12-year journey to graduation day.

The commencement ceremony for the Londonderry High School Graduation took place on Friday, June 9, at the Southern New Hampshire University Arena in Manchester, where thousands of family members and friends filled their seats to the sounds Andy Soucy's school band.

Seniors proceeded from behind the stage and took their places in the middle of the arena around 7 p.m., preparing for their final sendoff from the LHS and School District staff.

Too Many Trailers on Property Discussed by Planning Board

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Residents with travel trailers and motorhomes may want to be cautious, as concerns over locals with too many trailers on their property have caught the attention of town hall officials.

During the Planning Board's June 7 meeting, Richard Canuel, the town's code enforcement officer, came before the board to answer questions concerning a proposed zoning amendment that would limit the number of motor homes and trailers allowed on one's property.

According to Canuel, there have been a number of enforcement issues regarding residents keeping trailers parked on their properties for extended periods of time. Canuel noted that there were "no regulatory provisions to point to" concerning the number of trailers allowed on one's property or how long they can be stored there. So, following the recommendation of both the town attorney and town manager, Canuel produced new language for the amendment that was kept purposefully open-ended. Making the ordinance specific would potentially cause further issues that could be difficult to enforce.

The ordinance currently states that no lot in the agricultural residential zone may have more than one unregistered motor vehicle and/or one boat 20 feet or longer outdoors. Canuel proposed adding to the amendment so that it would also concern motor homes, campers, and trailers, as well as forbidding the use of these trailers as accessory living spaces. Canuel noted that the amendment is not set in stone since is still in its proposal stage.

Board member Giovanni Verani asked Canuel if there was any way the ordinance could be tied into acreage, which Canuel reminded Verani of the reason he originally

Town Manager Seeks Board's Approval for Land Purchase

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

As Cross Farm Development LLC continues its work to produce a 200-unit elderly housing community along 57 Adams Road, the town of Londonderry continues its efforts to lessen the project's impact on local traffic.

During the June 7 Planning Board meeting at the town hall, Town Manager Kevin Smith went before the board with hopes of receiving a recommendation for the purchase and resale of a small patch of land outside of Cross Farm's future building site.

Smith sought this recommendation because according to current construction plans, the housing community will only have one entrance and one exit on Adams Road. The town is hoping to purchase a 2.8-acre patch of land in between Cross Farm's property and Route 102, which is currently owned by the Department of Transportation. Cross Farm and the town had previously come to agreement that if the town purchased the patch of land for $360,000, Cross Farm would immediately purchase the land from the town for the same price and convert the land into a road connecting to 102, as well as cover any costs concerning survey plans and construction. Smith stated that this was the best option since the land would eventually go to public auction if it was not purchased, giving Cross Farm a lesser chance at gaining the property.

and their family members. Parent noted how proud he was of the Class of 2017, not only for their academic and extracurricular activities, but also for their attitudes. "Every step of the way, you did things with grace and sophistication," he told them. He continued by listing notable class achievements, including five LHS students receiving some of the highest PSAT scores in the country, participating in various fundraisers, excelling within the school's sports and music programs, achieving a zero percent dropout rate for the first time in the school's history, and having 10 students join the armed forces. He then encouraged students to go out and change the world, but also to never be afraid to revisit their roots.

As he neared the end of his speech, Parent invited Superintendent Nate Greenberg to the stage to speak, as he has always been a source of inspiration for the students.

Greenberg, who is officially retiring from his position this year, found himself in a similar position as his students: preparing to enter a next chapter of his life. Upon receiving a standing ovation from the crowd and students, Greenberg collected the fond memories and pride during his time with the Londonderry School District, as well as the various lessons that both he and the students learned over the years. He reminded the students that they, too, should be proud of their time at LHS and the legacies of success that they will leave behind by saying, "You know you can do it because you have already done it."

Greenberg also asked the audience to stand in order to show the seniors that throughout their entire lives, there will always be people who love and support them. They should "never forget the people who helped [them] achieve this goal."

Following Greenberg's speech, the valedictorian of the class, Alena Pursel, took to the stage to address her peers one last time. Pursel encouraged the students to try stepping outside of their comfort zones without being afraid to make mistakes. "Doing so could be a chance to discover something new and interesting in the process. It's not fun living a life that is always predictable," she said. Wishing her peers happiness and success, Pursel concluded her speech by also wishing them luck, regardless of the paths they take.

la Ziolek followed Pursel, began her speech by asking her fellow students to recall all the great memories they had at LHS, while also acknowledging that it is time for bigger and better things. She then reminded them to get to know as many people as possible in the future, as she found that students spend so much time in high school figuring themselves out that they forget to learn about others. Pursel was visibly proud of her peers, stating that "[They] always get the job done while always being kind." Before exiting the stage, she said, "Home isn't where you are, but who you're with. This only the beginning of the next step of our lives."

Following the presentation of a class gift by several class officers and a performance of Kelly Clarkson's Breakaway by Samantha Honeywell and Damian Bernardini, more than 350 seniors received their diplomas and proudly flipped their tassels to the left sides of their caps. With a final farewell from the staff, the Class of 2017 excitedly proceeded out the doors of the arena, off to create their own paths while making Londonderry proud in the process.

Getting the Full Story

How many of us find ourselves irritated or offended by comments on Facebook or other social media sites? It's important to be in the know about big traffic jams on I-93, sightings of multiple emergency vehicles, school busses stopped on the side of the road, and icy road conditions during the winter. However, this information is often followed by rumors, half-truths, and anonymous comments. Sometimes the facts are there, but the material we read is often based on opinion and speculation.

Depending where you click, you might get the story. Or, you might be treated to somebody's idea of the story, which lacks facts all together.

Although there has been talk about the internet being the death of the newspaper, we don't buy it. We know now that this will only be the case with the 'big ones' and their weeklies that only pretend to be local. Privately owned community and local weeklies will soon be the only reliable source of information.

Social media postings can catch and keep our attention by providing real-time content, but they create rumors, suspicions, and conspiracy theories, making it difficult to tell truth from fiction. This is not the case in community newspapers, though, which are based on facts, people, and places we all know. What you read in print may not be as exciting as the latest social media posting, but it's factual, and if we make a mistake, we correct it in the next edition.

The purpose of a community newspaper is to report the facts rather than to speculate or start rumors, even though we're all tempted to sometimes. While reporters are asked to investigate rumors, readers will never see stories containing information that has not been proven to be true. We do not create news. We cover what will happen and what has happened publicly.

While sites like Facebook don't have word count limitations, they cater to the short attention spans we've developed since the advent of the Internet. If you want to find out what really happened, pick up a community newspaper. You may not like what an article says, but it's based on the facts.

We also tend to forget about the personal aspect of community newspapers. Nutfield Publishing's three publications are committed to reporting and photographing what happens in their respective towns. Our reporters, photographers, and owners live in the area and are familiar faces as they attend and support community endeavors. We aren't anonymous - you know where to find us. When you support us, you support a local business.

So, go ahead and check out social media. We all do it. We even have Facebook pages for our three newspapers. But, if you want to read about what really happens in your community, you can't beat a community newspaper.

Clarification on Water Ban Position

To the Editor,

In response to Alex Guitarr's article, "Council Takes Steps to Ban Water Removal from Town Owned Property," remarks made by Deanna Mele during the June 5 Public Hearing, which are on record in the minutes and on cable, need to be clarified.

Mele: I'm getting a little confused about all of this sitting back there listening to everything. We have an ordinance that has to do with irrigating the lawn and everything that we just discussed. We put the ordinance in effect that if and when, we are making an ordinance to keep in the books, so that if and when this happens again. That's what I wanted to clarify. Now, as far as this Kendall Pond area, I was very concerned about that area as I have said many times. I have done a lot of research and I have also checked with the town. That is town-owned property. I don't see why the town of Londonderry does not have the right to put a sign down there. It is town owned property and I don't think the town is going to give people permission to go down there and draw water out of there. I hope not! We went through all of this at the drought. I saw vehicles down there with hardly any water down there and they are still sucking the water out for their businesses. They don't care about the well owners and people around there. Apparently they have no concern about anyone else except getting that water and taking it out and putting in on the grass and making money on it. That should not be. Since the sign is very helpful, since the sign has been down there and we have been doing a lot of talking about this and since they were told, I have noticed people down there fishing, enjoying the area. This is what the area was for many years ago when I moved up here. We didn't have all these people down there drawing water out of that area, on Kendall Pond. It's beautiful, it's wonderful. The kids used to go down and feed the ducks. They haven't gone down there as yet, I haven't seen them feed the ducks but I see young men and I see older men down there with their fishing poles sitting in their chairs with the poles in the water, the lines in the water fishing, relaxing, enjoying it. Getting away from the toils of everyday activities. This is what the area is for. It is town-owned property. The town should not be giving anyone the right to go down there and draw water out of that property. Not only that, it's not safe for them to take it because of the way the road is made and there's a lot of traffic and there is nowhere actually to pull in and park. They shouldn't be down there and as far as taking water from any of our waterways, we have abused this. It is about time we looked at this a little differently. Too many of the landscapers and hydro seeders, as I say other people, have been going down there and abusing this to the point now that we have to do something. We have to do something to protect that waterways, protect the land, protect the well owners, and protect the individuals. Yes, the person who owns the property next to the water has rights can give about how much they are taking and I have been told while they have so much they can take, they can go to one place and get the water, they don't hit their full quota, they just to to another place and take it. This is a very important issue and the down should really be protecting their waterway and it is nice to have green grass. I love grass, I love beautiful scenery, I like waterways, I like nature. We are destroying all of these things by not taking care of them properly. We do have to have an ordinance and people who are responsible. People who are taking the water as well as the owners of the property. I am hoping the town is really going to make this point very clear. Thank you,

Deanna Mele

School Board Discusses Slashed Adult Education Grant

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

As graduation drew near for the students of Londonderry, the school board held a meeting at the town hall on June 6.

Because the year was coming to its close, very little needed to be discussed in terms of presentations and announcements. So, Chair Dan Lekas, after calling it to order, began the meeting with the committee reports.

Among those making these reports was Tyler Cullen, the newest representative of the Londonderry High School Student Council. He announced a number of upcoming events, including a bake sale scheduled to take place at Mack's Apples on August 26.

The retirement of Londonderry Middle School's Judy Payne was also announced during the meeting. As a special education assistant, Payne had worked at LMS for 12 years. She was thanked by the board for her service as well as for her "strong demeanor and instructional style."

The majority of the meeting, however, was spent focusing on the newly amended grant proposal for the town's Adult Education program's 2017-2018 school year.

Amity Small, assistant principal at LHS and Director of Alternative Education, presented the new proposal to the board, elaborating on what the state forced the program to cut out of its original $64,355 grant proposal.

Small noted that the program was forced to replace its subscriptions to Odysseyware, an online educational tool, with one to Plato, a similar, albeit cheaper alternative. Doing so will save the program roughly $11,000. Although this aspect of the program's budget will change, all others will remain the same.

Several board members noted that they did have concerns over these cuts. Member Leitha Reilly questioned whether or not Plato would meet the standards of the Adult Education program. In response, Small noted that although Plato has lagged behind other programs in the past, it has evolved significantly in recent years and should prove sufficient for the program's students without jeopardizing the quality of their education.

However, Superintendent Nate Greenberg warned Small to remain cautious over these fiscal matters, as there is still some uncertainty surrounding the federal and state budgets.

The Londonderry School Board has always been very supportive of the Adult Education program, with member Nancy Hendricks noting its service as a safety net, preventing students from dropping out. Lekas also noted that the students in the program tend to take a liking to Small.

As the meeting came to a close, the board unanimously approved the new grant for the upcoming school year, which came to a total of $43,197.40.

Town Seeking Design Firms To Produce Sign for Pettengill Road

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

It is likely that most Londonderry residents have noticed the increase in construction and industrial activity around town. In fact, in one of the more active industrial areas, the town is hoping to design a sign for the road to attract even more potential residents.

Pettengill Road was recently constructed as a means of facilitating access to over 700 acres of land for industrial development. Companies such as FedEx, Pratt-Whitney, and F.W. Webb are already utilizing the area for distribution, while around 200 acres are still available for purchase.

As a result, the town's Department of Planning and Economic Development is seeking proposals from qualified sign, architectural, and landscape design firms, among others, to produce a sign that will be placed along the northeasterly corner of Pettengill Road and Raymond Weiczorek Drive, advertising the available land to either potential residents or land-buyers.

The sign will need to be no larger than 100 square feet, provide LED lighting, and utilize the words, "Pettengill Commerce Park, Londonderry, New Hampshire." Electronic or interchangeable text signs will not be considered by the town.

Submissions for the proposal, which are due by noon on June 22, should include a cover letter, the qualifications and capabilities of the project team, a description of the sign's design and the technical approach to the design, a timeline for the project, an outline of deliverables, references from past clients, and the lump sum cost of the proposal.

Bidding for the proposal will occur on June 22 at 4 p.m. in the Elwood Conference Room of the Londonderry Town Hall, 268B Mammoth Rd, Londonderry.

Interviews may also be scheduled with one or more firms prior to the selection of a firm. The request notes that it reserves the right to negotiate bids prior to awarding the contract, as well as the right to reject any or all submittals. It "assumes no responsibility or liability for cost incurred by recipients of this RFP in responding to it or in responding to any subsequent information requests."

The town expects to see the sign fully installed by December 31 of this year.

To view the complete proposal request, please visit londonderrynh.org, view the "Town News" section, and click on the "Pettengill Commerce Park Gateway Sign Design Services RFP" link.

Trailers

wished to leave the ordinance open-ended. He explained that he preferred to respond to complaints if the trailers came off as an “unsightly nuisance.” Although Canuel wished to leave the issue up to discretion, Verani noted the dangers of “leaving something open to interpretation.”

Secretary Chris Davies expressed his agreement with some elements of the amendment, such as forbidding living in trailers for an extended period. However, he agreed with Verani about the ambiguity surrounding the amendment’s language and how it may lead to neighborhood disputes. Although Canuel defended the open-endedness of the amendment once again, Vice Chair Mary Wing Soares chimed in, arguing that what Canuel finds unsightly, may not be what she finds unsightly.

Alternate member

Peter Commerford then asked whether or not it should be certain that trailers and motor homes cannot be lived in, to which Canuel noted that the ordinance already contains language that confirms this.

Ann Chiampa, also an alternate member, asked Canuel about tiny homes, which only take up between 400 and 1,000 feet, and how they would pertain to the ordinance. Canuel described this as “a whole different animal,” and although they fit the ordinance’s language as an accessory dwelling unit, building codes actually forbid such units. Chiampa asked what the difference was between tiny homes and travel trailers, to which Canuel noted that tiny homes are typically not carted around like trailers and mobile homes, although Chiampa disputed this.

Chiampa also asked if the ordinance required any setbacks to these units. Canuel noted that there are none at the moment since they are not considered part of the property, but this will most likely be researched in the future.

Once all the board members had spoken, Canuel noted that he would try to alter the amendment’s language to address the concerns of the board, with Chair Art Rugg noting that board members should email Canuel in the future with ideas that would be addressed in upcoming workshops and public hearings.

Londonderry Residents Mourn the Loss of Dottie Grover

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

On Sunday, June 11, beloved and long-time resident, Dottie Grover passed away suddenly in her home.

Born in 1950, Grover had lived in Londonderry since the 1970's. She served as an employee of the town, sat on school board, and was an activist and volunteer. She lent herself tirelessly to the betterment of Londonderry, primarily when it came down to running the town's Cable Access Center.

Helping the Londonderry Access Center get off the ground during its early days, she served as the LACTV'S director and helped to turn it into one of the best cable stations in the state. Grover started her work with the LACTV by working on playbacks and editing content, helping to see the center into the age of Internet. She was a pioneer in establishing the various shows that regularly play on cable, laid the groundwork for a number of contracts with cable companies, and worked closely with residents who were struggling to gain access to these shows.

Outside of the Cable Access Center, Grover loved her dog, Peanuts, thus getting involved in the Dog Park Committee where she was chairperson for a number of years.

Peanut went everywhere with her and gave her great comfort.

She worked to establish video courses in the Londonderry School District so that younger residents would be able to help operate the equipment that brought life to her work. Even after her retirement from her position as director at the center, Grover continued to volunteer there, hosting a myriad of cable programs highlighting town events and hosting discussions with town and state officials.

Numerous members of the Londonderry community spoke about how they respected and admired Grover. Tom Dolan, Chair of the Town Council, was surprised by her passing, remembering how he had seen her not even a week ago at Market Basket, seemingly in perfect health. Dolan described her as "a very gentle person," and her passing as a "real loss to the community."

Town Manager Kevin Smith said that Grover was not afraid to speak her mind, adept at "separating fact from fiction."

Publisher and owner of the Londonderry Times Deb Paul, said, "I had many meetings and long talks with her on a regular basis. She was a fighter for the people and always stood for what was right. I will miss her and our talks very much."

Drew Caron, an employee at Londonderry Access Community Television, knew her when the station was still being run out of Londonderry High School. Caron noted that she always "had a huge passion for first amendment rights" and was always good at looking for details. He even believed that she "would have made a great lawyer" because of her work in contract negotiations.

Known for being a seeker of truth, Grover has been said to have always had the town's best interests at heart, being full of life and always relishing in helping the people of Londonderry.

The Londonderry Times extends its condolences to her friends, families, and anyone else affected by her passing.

tion Commission had given Smith its recommendation weeks earlier, it was now the Planning Board's turn to ask questions concerning the agreement.

Alternative member Ann Chiampa expressed several concerns including the speed limit along 102, which is 55 miles per hour. Chiampa, worried about the safety of elderly residents, asked whether or not the agreement would grant final approval for the project. Smith noted that it would not.

Secretary Chris Davies wondered if there would be any regulatory issues during the purchasing process, to which Smith noted that the town attorney had already assured him that no such issues would arise.

Finally, Town Council member Jim Butler suggested that Cross Farm be careful about their decision to procure the first entrance onto Adams Road, explaining that one onto Cross Road would be a better option. Members of the board reminded Butler that such issues should be addressed in the future when a site plan goes up for discussion, as the design for the property is not yet finalized.

With every board member having been given the chance to speak, all members unanimously approved the recommendation. The agreement will be discussed during the next two upcoming public hearings, the first occurring on June 19 and the second occurring no more than two weeks afterwards.

Councilor Urges Respect for Veterans With PTSD During Fourth of July

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

At the last meeting of the Town Council, Chairman Tom Dolan brought up the subject of fireworks and veterans, and felt the subject needed additional attention.

The Fourth of July has always been known for its festive, energetic, and patriotic nature. Visions of American flags lining the streets, barbecues with families and friends, and dazzling fireworks displays come to mind when we think of the holiday.

And, of course, this day also serves as a great opportunity to honor those who have served in the military and defended the very freedoms that we celebrate. However, while many of us love to take pride in our grand, robust fireworks displays, they may also inadvertently harm our veterans.

In recent years, there has been a nationwide effort to educate and remind citizens about the impact fireworks may have on veterans, particularly those who suffer from Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD). A prevalent issue since World War I, PTSD can be caused by any number of traumas, resulting in severe mental and physical distress when those who suffer are reminded of the trauma via outside stimuli. Individuals with PTSD may even lash out physically or commit suicide.

According to a survey conducted by the Wounded Warrior Project, a veterans' service organization, roughly 77% of veterans who were wounded in combat suffer from PTSD. Despite this alarming percentage, the United States lit off 285.3 million pounds of fireworks in 2015. Based on these statistics, it is not difficult to understand why fireworks displays may bring back bad memories for many of New Hampshire's 100,000 veterans.

This does not mean that you should avoid using fireworks on the Fourth of July all together, though. Simply be courteous about doing so out of respect our veterans. Get to know your local veterans, especially those who may live in your neighborhood. Londonderry's American Legion Post 27 is an also a great place to meet our veterans, even if only to thank them for their services.

If you do find that you live near veterans and plan on using fireworks on your property, try to give him or her a quick warning during the days leading up in case arrangements need to be made to prepare for the display.

The Fourth of July is a chance to celebrate the pride we have for our country, so be sure to keep those who fought for it in mind.

DES and Fire Department Respond to Length of Gas Spill Cleanup

ALEX GUITTARR
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Most Londonderry residents are likely to remember the gasoline and diesel spill that occurred last December along Rockingham Road near North Elementray School, as well as the subsequent efforts to excavate the material from the ground, which redirected traffic for months.

Although most of the work to remove the material has been completed, the question now comes down to just how much longer these efforts will last.

To recap the original spill, it began when a Public Service of New Hampshire (PSNH) truck overturned, spilling roughly 11,000 gallons of gas and diesel onto the side of the road. Upon responding to the incident, the Fire Department, led by Battalion Four Chief Jim Rogers, spread Class B foam to suppress any vapors coming from the affected areas to prevent any potential ignition. The Fire Department was also assisted by the Department of Transportation, the Department of Environmental Services, among others.

Over the next several months, the National Response Corporation worked to excavate and remediate the land, pulling out as much material as possible before testing the surrounding soil for any possible remnants of gas or diesel. The Fire Department was also stationed by the excavation crew whenever it occurred, on the off-chance of the product igniting.

While the affected land seems to be returning to normal, the sheer length of the process has raised a few eyebrows. Initially scheduled to only take five weeks, Rogers noted that excavation took longer than expected due to the winter months making the soil colder and harder to work through. He also stated that the DES has strict standards that need to be met before considering an incident to be placid.

Even with excavation seemingly complete and grass beginning to return to the land, testing will still be continuing indefinitely as a precaution. According to Jim Martin, a representative with the DES, they are currently sampling test wells which determine how much of the spilled product may be in the soil and local water wells. They will then work with a consultant of theirs who will give the final say on whether or not testing can desist. Martin stated that although the spill was not the biggest he has seen in the state, it was still rather large and it will be some time before testing will stop.

However, on a more positive note, Martin said that tests in the past several months have failed to find any traces of gas and diesel in the area. He stated that the town was "hugely helpful throughout the cleanup process."

Soon-To-Be Graduates Showcase Their Senior Projects

NOELLE TARDIFF
LONDONDERRY TIMES

On Monday night, June 5, nine soon-to-be Londonderry High School graduates showcased their year-long senior projects during a ceremony held in the school's cafeteria.

The students, with the guidance of personal mentors, worked throughout the year on these personalized projects, which showcased their individual talents and skills, ranging from organizing charitable events to mixing music. They created portfolios for the ceremony, which included their formal proposals, research papers, reflections, and time logs of the many hours spent working on their projects.

Last month, the students had the opportunity to present their projects to the LHS faculty at an event called the Senior Project Roundtable Presentation. Monday night's showcase ceremony, however, was open to the entire Londonderry community, including proud family members and friends.

Jonathan Burpeau, whose mentor was Kevin Konieczny, constructed a synthesizer, and what he described as "musical floppy drives with a twist."

Elizabeth Desena had two mentors, Sara Bernard and Arianne Gosselin, and painted a classroom mural for Londonderry's Specialized Theater Enrichment Program, which included an inspirational quote on the wall.

Lexi Freire and Alison Nelson worked together on a project with the help of Abbey Sloper. They organized a school-wide effort to collect school supplies to assist fellow classmates in need.

Alexandra Laverriere worked with mentors Karen

Desjadon and Maria Tallo to develop a public service announcement, creating awareness for and educating the community about understanding gender identity.

Joshua Stambach, with the help of mentor Michelle Wooding, upcycled district TV stands to develop a prototype bench. He then welded and donated his own bench, which will reside in the LHS courtyard.

Kayla Vanagel constructed a town-wide Blessing Box with mentor Abbey Sloper. The box provides free access to nonperishable items, hygiene, and paper products for those in need.

Rachael Winsor, whose mentors were Kristin Radford and Michelle Dyson, designed a logo to be screened on shirts. The shirts were then sold, and the profits were used to buy sleeping bags that were distributed to those in need in Manchester.

Finally, Chris Zaino, with mentors Kim Lindley-Soucy and Maureen O'Dea, revised and redesigned the Londonderry High School profile to stand out to all colleges and universities.

The ceremony was a great way for students to showcase their hard work on these innovative and inspiring projects to the community, family, and friends before graduation on Friday, June 9.

Four Lady Lancer Lacrosse Standouts Snag All-State Honors

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The Londonderry High School girls' lacrosse program's history is full of the efforts of talented standouts like Kayla Green, Dana Boyle, Jenny Thompson, Sarah Bell, and so many others who garnered plenty of attention and then went on to play the sport in college.

And as the old adage states, "The more things change the more they stay the same." That adage is further proven by the fact that the LHS girls' lax program had no less than four standouts collect all-state recognition after striding proudly in the footsteps of the Greens and Thompsons and others in helping their Lady Lancers to more success in the recently-completed 2017 season.

Londonderry players receiving honors were senior midfielder Emily

Emily Holland

Faye Brown

Catie Derhak

Sami Lecaroz

Holland and junior attack Catie Derhak, both getting First-Team All-State recognition from the Division I coaches, and senior defenders Faye Brown and Sami Lecaroz, both collect Second-Team All-State honors from those coaches.

Holland and Derhak were both consistent point-producing machines for their Lady Lancers, and Brown and Lecaroz both did superb work match after match in helping their team's defense to keep the other squads' offensive weapons stifled. All four athletes played vital roles in helping their team to the number four seed in tough Division I, one spot ahead of the defending state champions and arch-rivals from Pinkerton Academy.

The Lancers went 14-4 during the regular season, splitting two matches with the Lady Astros. Pinkerton won a defensive battle on Londonderry ground in the first, and the Lady Lancers put forth an exceptional second half in besting PA in Derry in meeting number two. And there would be a third, even more important battle which would bust the 1-1, 2017 tie between the rivals.

Londonderry put together a six-game winning streak from March 14 to 25, then lost three of its next four matches in a bit of a skid.

However, coach Walden's Lady Warriors won their final seven matches of the regular campaign to snag that fourth seed.

That seeding set Londonderry up in a quarter-final-round tournament battle with number five Pinkerton at LHS, and the visitors pulled out a hard-fought 7-6 victory and kept their title repeat hopes alive for one more round.

LHS Softball Crew Has a Quartet Snag Post-Season Honors

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

By now, everybody who paid attention to New Hampshire Division I high school softball knows that the Londonderry High Lady Lancers didn't have their 2017 campaign end well after they earned the number one seed with a glittering, 18-1 record.

But, be that as it was, nobody who got any kind of look at the LHS contingent will question the facts that the Lady Lancers were fun to watch with their skilled playing. In the wake of the 2017 season, the Londonderry squad had four of its members collect Division I honors for the work they did this season.

Leading that pack was senior pitcher Andi Nelson, who was named Division I Pitcher of the Year and a First-Team All-State selection. She posted a

Andi Nelson

Lauren Misiaszek

won-loss record of 12-2, hurled five shutouts, struck out more than 130 batters, and finished up with an earned run average below 2.00.

Joining the talented hurler as Division I first-team all-state picks were senior shortstop Katrina Rivard and junior outfielder Lauren Misiaszek.

"They were all deserving and consistent offensive and defensive starters. Andi's record speaks for itself," said longtime LHS softball coach Wayne MacDougall, who was the fourth post-season award winner for the 2017 Lady Lancer squad. He was named the Division I Coach of the Year.

After starting its 2017 campaign with high hopes, the Lancer mob tore off an eight-game winning streak before suffering its one and only regular season loss to the Salem High Lady Blue Devils in Salem on May 8.

After falling 3-0 that afternoon, the Lady Lancers got their bats cooking and ripped off a 10-game winning streak with which they ended the regular campaign.

Having tallied their exceptional 18-1 record, the locals earned the top seed and a bye going into the D-I tournament, so they got to sit back and watch first-round action.

When they did play on Saturday, June 3, the Lady Lancers had every reason to believe they could get past the ninth-seeded Bedford High Lady Bulldogs in quarterfinal-round action on their home diamond. Alas, that didn't happen as Bedford pulled off a 5-0 upset victory, leaving the LHS program still seeking its first-ever state championship.

"I was rewarded for our regular season with Division I Coach of the Year, and I am pleased by that. But it's little consolation when you know you had a team capable of being champions or at least competing for it," lamented MacDougall.

Londonderry High Laxmen Sweep Up Seven Post-Season Awards

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

No, the Londonderry High School varsity boys' lacrosse team's 2017 season didn't wind up exactly as the Lancers would have liked. But, based upon the post-season awards handed out by the Division I coaches recently, everybody knew that the LHS crew had all kinds of talent and great leadership and was a power with which to be reckoned.

The Londonderry team had three players receive First-Team All-State recognition, three others garner Second-Team All-State honors, and coach Sean LeBlanc get named Division I Coach of the Year.

The Lancers had three of their departing seniors - attack Sean Snyder, mid-fielder Pete Navarro, and face-off specialist and middle Tyler Grant - nab First-Team honors, and senior middle Brandyn Proulx, junior defender Corey Hicks, and sophomore middle Jake Holland get named second-teamers. Grant also recently learned that he had won coveted Brine All-American honors.

Coach of the Year LeBlanc had his Lancers collect the third seed in tough Division I with a 13-3 regular season which featured a 5-1 start, a small skid in going 1-2 in the three matches after that, followed by a superb seven-game winning streak to close out the regular campaign.

But, Londonderry's determined drive for a state championship ended in the tournament quarterfinals with an upset loss at the hands of the visiting, sixth-seeded Exeter High Blue Hawks, who edged the locals by a 7-6 score.

Exeter, which then went on to get hammered by the second-seeded, eventual state champions Bishop Guertin of Nashua in the D-I semifinals, dropped decisions of 9-8 and 13-9 to Londonderry during the regular season.

Regarding the Brine All-American award which Brewster Academy-bound Tyler Grant received, coach LeBlanc gave plenty of credit where it's certainly due.

"This is a great accomplishment for Tyler," said the coach. "Tyler is one of the most focused lacrosse players I have ever coached. His work ethic and attention to detail are second to none, and that's why he has had so much success this year. A few years ago, Tyler decided he wanted to be a dominant face-off guy, and through his hard work that's exactly what he has become."

In receiving the Brine honor, Grant will get to represent the New England region by playing in the 2017 National Lacrosse Classic at the River City Sportsplex in Richmond, VA, in mid-July.

That national event is a first-of-its-kind lacrosse experience created to provide lacrosse athletes with a competitive process to benchmark their skills and athleticism, qualify for selection to represent their state in a national tournament, and gain recognition by competing in front of NCAA lax coaches.

- PROVIDER ON CALL - COLON CANCER

Colon cancer is cancer of the large intestine (colon), the lower part of your digestive system. Rectal cancer is cancer of the last several inches of the colon. Together, they're often referred to as colorectal cancers. Most cases of colon cancer begin as small, non-cancerous (benign) clumps of cells called adenomatous polyps. Over time some of these polyps become colon cancers. Polyps may be small and produce few, if any, symptoms. For this reason, doctors recommend regular screening tests to help prevent colon cancer by identifying polyps before they become colon cancer.

Signs and symptoms of colon cancer include: a change in your bowel habits, including diarrhea or constipation or a change in the consistency of your stool for more than a couple of weeks; rectal bleeding or blood in your stool; persistent abdominal discomfort, such as cramps, gas or pain; a feeling that your bowel doesn't empty completely; weakness or fatigue; or unexplained weight loss.

Many people with colon cancer experience no symptoms in the early stages of the disease. When symptoms appear, they'll likely vary, depending on the cancer's size and location in your large intestine. It's not clear what causes colon cancer in most cases. Doctors know that colon cancer occurs when healthy cells in the colon become altered. Healthy cells grow and divide in an orderly way to keep your body functioning normally. But sometimes this growth gets out of control. Cells continue dividing even when new cells aren't needed. In the colon and rectum, this exaggerated growth may cause precancerous cells to form in the lining of your intestine. Over a long period of time, spanning up to several years, some of these areas of abnormal cells may become cancerous.

Among other tests to diagnose colon cancer a colonoscopy has gotten the most attention in recent years. There are also blood test, although, there is not blood test to confirm colon cancer. A barium enema allows doctors to create a clear silhouette of your rectum, colon and sometimes a small portion of your small intestine. It is important if you suspect that you have any issues to consult with your doctor to catch this early.

Londonderry High Baseball Trio Collects All-State Recognition

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

L ongt ime Londonderry High School baseball coach Brent Demas has never had any shortage of talent on his squads. Hence, his Lancers producing highly-competitive seasons every spring and state championships in 2004, 2010, and 2014 under Demas' leadership.

While the LHS squad didn't manage to get to the top of Division I this spring, the Londonderry hardball crew was once again a highly-competitive entry in its tough division and Demas' bunch produced three all-state players to add to their lengthy list of previous all-state selections.

This time around, Londonderry had versatile Nate Sullivan, lefty pitcher extraordinaire Anthony Pirolli, and top-notch lead-off hitter and defensive stalwart Ricky Perry collect all-state recognition. And some of the best news from coach Demas' standpoint is that all three standouts were juniors and they're slated to be back to stand as centerpieces for the 2018 LHS hardball crew.

Sullivan received First-Team All-State honors for a 2017 season in which he excelled both at short-stop and on the pitcher's mound for his Lancers.

In his pitching role, the junior tallied a 2-2 record for his 11-10 LHS contingent, with one save and a tiny 1.37 earned run average.

At the plate, he was a true stalwart for his squad in finishing first in batting (.324), runs batted in (18), total hits (23), and singles (tied with 16). He also ranked second in doubles (five) and walks (10) and third in on-base percentage (.407) and stolen bases (six).

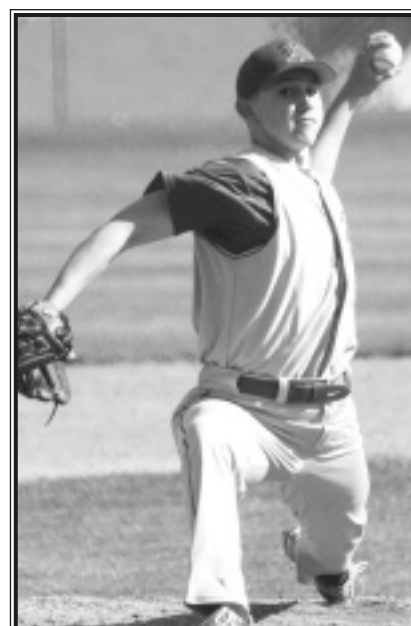

"Nate does a little of everything in a baseball game," said coach Demas.

Standout Lancer leadoff-batter and outfielder Ricky Perry scared and stymied opponents.

Versatile Nate Sullivan was a force for his Lancers in a number of different roles.

Southpaw Anthony Pirolli gave the LHS hardball squad good starts every time out.

"He was one of the team's top hitters, defenders, and pitchers. He was named team MVP for 2017."

Skilled southpaw hurler Pirolli, who collected Second-Team All-State honors, put forth strong performance after strong performance for his team, finishing up with a 3-3 record and a truly superb 1.85 ERA. He struck out 40 batters in just under 46 innings worth of hill-work.

"He was our best pitcher this year," said Demas. "He went against some high-quality teams and was in every game."

And it would be difficult to find a much better lead-off-hitter in all of Division I than Ricky Perry, who notched All-State Honorable Mention recognition.

The outfielder and sometime second baseman paced his crew in runs scored (20), singles (tied with 16), walks (13), and on-base percentage (.420). He was second in batting (.309), and he finished tied for third where runs batted in were concerned (10).

"He is an on-base machine," said Demas. "And in center field Ricky was a game-changer, which coaches across the state recognized at the all-state meeting."

The Lancers' 2017 campaign was successful but still somewhat up and down, with the locals posting an 11-9 regular season record and finishing as the number nine seed in their division. They had a season-long winning streak of four games between April 17 and 22, but dropped two consecutive games three times.

The end of the road arrived with a rather frustrating, first-round tournament loss to the eighth-ranked Salem High Blue Devils on that opponent's home diamond in the early days of June.

Lady Lancers' JV Softball Crew Enjoyed a Great 2017 Season

CHRIS PANTAZIS
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Coach Stephanie Belanger wound up with a slew of reasons to be tremendously pleased with the work of her 2017 Londonderry High junior varsity softball squad this spring.

Belanger's bunch appears to have touched absolutely every base in covering all that's hoped for from a sub-varsity sports contingent, continuing to develop the skills of young athletes and further deepening their love for and respect for a sport, having fun, and winning ball games whenever possible.

The Lady Lancers' junior varsity squad posted a truly stellar 15-2 record, with its only losses coming in slim defeats to Spaulding of Rochester and Pinkerton.

And with the LHS varsity having enjoyed a truly exceptional 2017 campaign as well - notching the top seed in Division I and only losing twice - it truly was some kind of softball spring at Londonderry High.

"This year's infield was primarily made up of experienced sophomores who have played with each other on travel teams the past few years. They were a force to be reckoned with," said coach Belanger. "Our offense had a slow start to the season and didn't really pick up until three games in. Once the girls started to hit, they were like an unstoppable force. But against Pinkerton and Spaulding we were unable to get the bat on the ball. Overall, these girls put their hearts into every minute of the games and I appreciated that."

The skilled and successful squad included juniors Bethany Costello (center field) and Maddie Puglisi (right field), sophomores Jalynn McManus (third base), Jocelyn Mayo (pitcher/outfielder), Alyssa Vaillancourt (catcher and co-captain), and Delaney McGurn (shortstop and co-captain), and freshmen Michaela Doyle (first base/designated hitter), Madison Rankin (second base), Nina Perry (pitcher/outfielder), Cailin Borovicka (outfield), Molly McGuirk (first base/DH), Jilian Glynn (outfielder /pitcher), and Kayla Miles (second base).

Coach Belanger named catcher Vaillancourt her squad's Most Valuable Player, stating, "She made stealing second base nearly impossible as she picked off five runners this season. And she hit two home runs against the Salem JV."

Most Improved Player Jilian Glynn was also highly impressive, with coach Belanger stating, "Our lead-off batter who had the most success with stolen bases and scored many of the runs that led to wins. She laid down the perfect bunt in extra innings against Concord which allowed the winning run to come in."

Of Offensive Award

The Londonderry High School junior varsity softball contingent enjoyed a truly superb 2017 campaign, showing that the strong LHS program will continue to be a force to be reckoned with in future years. Courtesy photo winner Jalynn McManus, the coach said, "She had the most runs batted in on the season."

And of Defensive Award recipient Costello coach Belanger stated, "She caught every pop-up into center field this season. She caught six fly balls into center against Concord alone."

The LHS varsity squad enjoyed another superb campaign under the leadership of veteran mentor

Wayne MacDougall. But six important seniors graduated from that contingent this spring, so there will be important jobs and roles available with the varsity crew during the spring of 2018.

Seniors Return to Elementary School for Senior Breakfast

RILEY WALBERG
LONDONDERRY TIMES

On June 9, seniors of Londonderry High School woke up to go to go to school for one last day. This time, though, they weren't headed to the high school, but to their elementary schools to revisit their old stomping grounds and teachers from first through fifth grade.

"On the way to and from the school, we reminisced on all the things we remembered," South School alumnus Devyn Enwright said. "We laughed and joked about our awkwardness. It was fun."

Upon arriving at the schools, seniors put on nametags and laughed at old pictures before moving onto the food and greeting their old teachers.

"I love catching up with my prior students," North School teacher Toni Carballeira said. "Knowing they are happy, healthy, and planning their future

Members of the Londonderry High School graduating class made a stop during their last day in school to visit with their elementary schools teachers and be served breakfast. Photos by Chris Paul provides closure for both of us."

Later on, students were allowed to go back and re-explore their old halls, classrooms and playgrounds.

"I was surprised by how little everything was because I remember it all being so much bigger,"

Enwright said. "But, other than that, everything was so familiar and the same. It was almost comforting in a way."

Students left their old schools after the current elementary schoolers started to arrive for their school days, but not before playing some basketball and keep-away with them.

"This is a great event and one that I hope continues on and on," LHS assistant principal Katie Sullivan said. "It gives our graduating seniors a chance to reflect upon their days as a elementary school students and see the teachers that helped guide them."

The class of 2017 also started a new tradition this year: a breakfast at the high school for Hooksett students. The class of 2017 was the first class at LHS to accept kids from Hooksett at their school, and the administration wanted to make sure they weren't left out of this great tradition.

"I think the senior breakfast is important because it allows all of us [students and teachers] the opportunity to reconnect," Carballeira said. "It reminds the soon to be graduates that they will always have a place filled with memories to return to, a place of belonging and identification."
