This year, Londonderry High School saw over three hundred graduates at the Southern New Hampshire University Arena Friday night, June 14, Three-hundred twenty-eight to be exact, as the school district bid farewell to the Londonderry senior class of 2019.

The procession of educators, staff and school board members led the way into the arena to "Pomp and Circumstance" performed by the Londonderry High band's freshmen, sophomores and juniors with Serge Beaulieu conducting.

Farrell, Criticizes School District's Bonds Requests

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Londonderry Town Council Chairman, John Farrell, criticized the School Department's bonds requests during the Monday, June 17, Town Council meeting.

Seeing an opportunity to speak to a full room of people in the Town Council chambers that evening, Farrell made the final public comment that evening by saying that the Town Council has reached a point in which it believes that in the next two years, the town does not need to ask for the voters for additional bonding to build new facilities.

He followed by saying that the School Department is asking for a $70 million bond and is looking to add to the facilities and a full-day kindergarten program, which has not been voted on by the town's voters.

The School Department, according to Farrell, wishes to add an auditorium and a new building, despite its population going down from 5,600 to 4,000. Farrell did not say in which year the school population stood at 5,600.

"As the Chairman of the CIP committee, I will be exploring into that and understanding why we need to add facilities when our student population is down by 30 percent," he said. "Their budget is $75 million and they are asking for $70 in bonds." He also advised the voters to learn more about the issue.

After that statement, the Town Hall Chambers were still almost full with members of the Hickory Woods community who were there to respond to the first agenda item.

The 55-and-over community's Home Owner Association had submitted a request to the Plan-

Conservation Commission Opposes Office-Retail Plans

MIKE BYERLY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

For the second time, the Conservation Commission reviewed a proposed development at 77 Nashua Road (Route 102) that would include fourteen condos and about 13,000 square feet of office and retail space.

When the Commission first reviewed the plan in their May 14 meeting, they discussed the impact of the project on two wetlands on the property. In that conceptual review, they agreed to support a wetland permit that would impact a wetland in order for the developer to install a driveway that would lead to the condos in the rear of the property.

However, they objected to impacts to the second wetland resulting from the building of the office-residential space. Jack Szemplinski of Benchmark Engineering returned to the Commission on June 11 offering to install a retaining wall behind the building to reduce the impact by a couple hundred square feet.

The proposed impact on the wetland and buffer would still be over 20,000 square feet. Commissioners Gene Harrington and Mike Byerly re-iterated the position of the Commission from the May 14 meeting that the size of the proposed building should be reduced to keep it out of the wetland and its buffer.

Szemplinski claimed that the size of the building was needed to make the project economically viable. Byerly expressed skepticism about that and said that he could try to convince the Planning Board of that if the project

Junkyard Licensing Frustrates Hall Road Resident Again

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Tempers rose during the New Business section of the last Town Council meeting on Monday, June 17, regarding the Town Council's yearly vote on the approval to renew the license of Murray's Auto Recycling junkyard, located at 55 Hall Road in Londonderry.

Richard Canuel, the town's Health Officer, was presenting the order to the Town Council members and admitted that there have been many issues over the years with the junkyard's owner, Ed Dudek and that he has been out of compliance and received multiple visits from the Health Office. Canuel said that because of this issues, the business is currently operating under a court order but added that each time he stopped there to remind the owner about the issues, things were taken care of quickly.

Canuel said that in his year-end inspection last week he did not reveal any problems: "For a junkyard, it is probably one of the best I have seen. It is very clean." He recommended giving Murray's Auto the licensing for another year.

After hearing Canuel's

recommendation, Richard Bielinski asked to speak to the council and was granted special permission to do so. He started by saying that the business, Murray's auto, indeed cleaned up his ace, but suggested that there is still a serious fencing issue and that cars can constantly be seen over the fence: "He used to take them out every two-three months and now he is doing it every few weeks, so it is in cycles, but they are above the fence as much as they are below", complained Bielinski to the Town Council members.

Next, he showed the members a few photos of Murray's Auto with different dates on them, ranging from Jun. 2017 all the way to last month. In each photo, cars can be clearly seen over the property's fence. He said that at least one of the fences is never up.

The town told Dudek to use a different fabric for his fences several years ago, but according to Bielinski, every snow or wind storm, the fences go down again. He said that Dudek receives a letter noticing him that he will be inspected, so he puts the fences up, but that does not last for too long. "This has been going on for 20 years", said Bielinski, and showed the council members the RSA (267-A:11) saying the according to state law, "before use, a new junkyard or automotive recycling yard shall be completely surrounded with a solidly constructed fence at least 6 feet in height...".

He added that part of the town's conditions for the junkyard to continue its operation is that no cars are shown over the fence. He also claimed that the business is advertising auctions in the newspapers for a year a half, which is a change of use.

The Town Council Chairman John Farrell

answered to Bielinski claims regarding the fence by saying that in order to force Murray's Auto to change it to a solid fence the town will have to go to the court, "We don't make that decision," said Farrell, and asked Bielinski to step down.

Bielinski responded by asking Farrell to step down from his position as Town Council Chairman, "You and your wife are the only two political signs that go on that property," he said before leaving the stand, and added, "You are the most useless councilor that I've ever seen in my life."

Londonderry Police Department Welcomes New Detective

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Justin Hallock was first hired as a police officer in 2012 in Raymond, NH. He knew even then that his next big goal was to become a detective. After three years with the Raymond Police Department, he transferred to the Londonderry Police Department in 2015. Three months ago he finished a long process, reached his goal and received his promotion.

"You have to be at least three years with the Police Department before you can even begin with the process of becoming a detective", he explains to the Londonderry Times. "Then you study and take a written test. If you pass that, you have the oral board test. There is a big panel with many people from other agencies and if you get a high enough score, you are entered on a list of finalists. There are only five people on that list and just one of them receives the promotion and becomes a detective." He was the one.

Detective Hallock is now working in the Londonderry Police Department Juvenile Services Unit, where he meets juvenile offenders, as well as, minors who need the assistance of the police and protection. He also serves as the LPD's Elder Affairs Liaison, where he partners with various senior groups in town.

"The new position is very rewarding because I deal a lot with youngsters", he says. "In every case I deal with, I try to have a good influence on these kids and minors. That is what we want to do every day in the police, but with juvenile cases it is extremely special. They see the police and know that we are there to help them. It's a whole different police work. Sometimes they are the victim, sometimes they need guidance and you can be the person who is there to help and lead them."

When asked about the biggest challenge of his new position, Detective Hallock has no doubts: "As a father, every time there is a juvenile victim, it's something that no one wants to deal with, but we have to do the job. We don't ever want to receive a call about a minor who is the victim of something. It's very tough. But I also know that if we don't respond, that kid will continue to be the victim. And yes, sometimes when you deal with a case like this, you think about your own kids and it is a sad situation."

Detective Hallock is also part of the town's SWAT team and sets his eyes on his next big goal: Become a Sergeant. "I want to have influence with the leadership and keep moving forward. It's nice being a detective now. I can be part of an investigation from its beginning all the way until the end. Collect the evidence, talk to people and understand what happened. It's like a puzzle and once all the pieces connect, it's special and I know that the most important thing is that I may have been able to help a kid change his life."

He is known as "Skater Cop" and last Saturday even led the Londonderry Police Department's second annual "Skate park clean-up day", which focused on removing leaves, sticks and other debris from the park area that is located at the LAFA Fields: "I skate and it helps me connect with the kids. It makes it much easier for me to talk to them. We even have a Skateboard Club and we do an event every year."

Summertime And The Livin' Is Easy

Now that school's out, summer has officially arrived. There are plenty of really fun things to do like, camps, ballgames, swimming, fishing, trips to the beach or the mountains or, just fooling around in the neighborhood. It's also the time of the year when our youngest people are most vulnerable to accidents, or worse, and this is particularly true where water and streets are concerned.

Water is the ultimate attractive nuisance for children and too often a fatal one. Pools, regardless of the depths, streams, rivers, ponds, and lakes - they all hold a special fascination for children. It seems ridiculously obvious to remind everyone, regardless of age or swimming ability, no one should be in or near water alone.

Like the water, our roads can be just as dangerous with kids walking, running, riding bikes, etc...on and near roads, parents can issue all the warnings, but that won't keep kids off the streets. Unlike the threats posed by water, motorists can play a big role in preventing serious accidents. When driving in residential areas especially, just slow down and be much more attentive, day and night.

On a lighter note, town recreation programs offer days spent in the company of other kids, learning crafts, playing games, and generally having fun. Athletic camps are offered in a myriad of sports. Summer Reading Programs at local libraries offer a two-for-one benefit. First, they're free and second, they encourage reading, a wonderful way to wile away a summer day.

Free concerts for all ages, are offered in several of our communities. Consider them a good excuse to get out of the house in the evening, away from the canned entertainment on TV, or video games on the computer. Prepare a picnic or pick up some take-out food, put the lawn chairs and a blanket in the car, grab the mosquito repellent, and head out for a relaxed evening of entertainment.

Check out our calendar listings each week, and plan to enjoy some fun close to home. If that's not enough, we're heading right into festival season, with more music, plenty of food and games. We see bandstands decked out in patriotic bunting, a flag waving from its pole, and families gathered on lawn chairs or reclining on blankets, perhaps with a slice of pie and a pitcher of iced tea resting between them. That's an iconic image of summer in this part of the country, as we complain about the heat and humidity at the same time.

So while the short but sweet summer is here, fire up the barbecue, head to the beach, lake, the backyard, or just sit on the screen porch and enjoy a firefly-filled evening listening to or watching the Red Sox.

Trite as it may sound, kids will be kids, and summertime is by far the happiest time to be kid. Let's all do our part to make it a safe summer.

Bad Politics

To the editor,
I purchased a home here in Londonderry in 2003 and over those years I have learned so much about Londonderry by reading the Londonderry Times, and on many occasions I have commented on the professionalism of its content.

Now the Londonderry town fathers do not agree because they have seen fit to sign a new contract with an out-of-town newspaper with a publisher located in Baltimore Maryland.

I cannot understand how and why our elected officials saw fit not to continue with our local paper owned and operated by a resident of Londonderry.

The town no longer sends legal notices to the Londonderry Times but to Baltimore to be published in the Derry News?

I have owned businesses here in New Hampshire and in Massachusetts. As well and it was our policy to do business in the town we were operating in, it is a good practice to feed the hand that feeds you.

It is evident that certain Town Councilors in Londonderry do not believe in that philosophy. However when they try to induce another company to do business in Londonderry, they will offer huge tax incentives to get them here. But to do nothing to maintain a small business owner located right here in Londonderry.

When things like this happen in our town I wonder why?

In searching for an answer, it comes out that the town official made the decision citing it was cheaper to give business to an out of townner.

Strange, why was it not cheaper over the last 18 years or even before last elections?

So, then what was the motive? Looking deeper we find that the owner of the times exercised her right and ran for a local office.

This evidently ruffled some feathers. So now the Londonderry Times is no longer getting any business from the town.

This was an act of retaliation or even better what it means is "If you want to do business in town stay out of politics." We do not need Boston style politics in Londonderry. But what we do need is limits. Those who have been in office too long become self-serving.

Stop Iranian Oil Tanker Attacks

To the editor,

After two more oil tankers were attacked in the Middle East, Secretary of State Pompeo and President Trump stated Iran was responsible for the attacks. This brings to six the number of oil tankers attacked by Iran.

Iran is attempting to get the United States to lift its crippling economic sanctions which have severely restricted its oil shipments. Iran is trying to interdict oil shipments from competing countries in the region and could be trying to drive up world oil prices, but this strategy runs the risk of the United States and other countries taking military action against Iran.

We, and other impacted countries, should put an end to the Iranian attacks on the oil tankers by conducting mine sweeping operations in the Gulf of Oman, Strait of Hormuz and the Persian Gulf. Impacted countries should provide naval escorts to the tankers. If necessary, Iranian naval forces should be neutralized, and while at it, we could take out Iran's strategic weapons systems.

ning Board to rezone the commercial lot at 6 Tavern Hill Road to an agricultural lot. The planning board has made a unanimous recommendation to approve the request and the Town Council followed through, to the delight of the community members.

The Town Council also approved the receiving of a three acres lot, which had been donated to the town. The technical address to the lot is 104 Rockingham Rd., but it is accessed through Liberty Dr. and consists of 2/3 wetland and 1/3 upland. The recommendation, which was approved by the Town Council, is to work with

Finally, the Town Council approved to transfer a lot which was under the town's control to Vernco Apple, LLC. It is believed that the new lot will be used for additional parking spots.

School Bullying is Difficult Issue Facing the School District and Parents

MACK LEATHURBY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Earlier this spring, an article regarding a bullying incident at Londonderry Middle School was reported to the newspaper by a Londonderry grandmother, and though the school district and staff try to address the issue of bullying, it needs to be done through realistic policies and within legal guidelines.

The Middle School Student and Parent Handbook has a dedicated policy section outlining the process for a bullying incident. The Handbook states, "The bullying investigation shall be completed within 21 school days of receipt of the report, if practicable." Superintendent Laliberte, and other school officials, including those at Mathew Thornton Elementary report it is key to address bullying situations in the timeliest manner and in significantly less than 21 days.

The goal is to resolve bullying head-on as soon as possible.

Speaking with Londonderry Superintendent of Schools, Scott Laliberte, about best practices for how schools can proactively stop bullying and what school staffing needs to do when bullying occurs. Laliberte said he had been involved in this Middle School incident.

Laliberte says, "The Londonderry School District is making a considerable effort to address this matter on two different fronts. The first includes climate and culture initiatives - events to develop a more positive school culture. These have been underway all year across the District and will continue. Kindness initiatives at our elementary schools, compliment boxes and kindness celebrations at LMS, and our cultural competency efforts at LHS are all examples of ways we are trying to develop a more positive and inclusive culture in Londonderry Schools."

Laliberte continues, "The second action is our treatment of bullying cases once they are reported. Administrators have developed a screening tool that helps us determine whether a report meets the legal definition of bullying, or if it should be investigated and consequences administered (if appropriate) under another rule or policy. ...there are specific timelines for investigation and notification during a bullying investigation.

Sometimes, behavior may not meet the definition of bullying, but may be inappropriate under a different school rule. In those cases, administrators will investigate and communicate in a timely manner as well, though the formal documentation may look different. Under all cases, student safety is of primary concern to us all."

Deb Pointe told us more about the bullying involving her grandchild. Pointe outlined some specifics, "My 12-year-old grandchild attends the Londonderry Middle School ...and has been the victim of persistent bullying. It was recently discovered my grandchild, together with several other children's names, were on 'a list' authored by one of the students attending the school, who is the principal bully involved, she has been a bully in the past to my grandchild and at least another. The list itself depicts children names and how they were to be hurt. ...several children physically saw this list ... (and) this girl was working on this list - noting our children's names. At that time my grandchild's name was not on that list."

"An incident occurred between my grandchild and another child (who are friends) - they yelled at each other and the girl who created the list was nearby. During the lunch period, about an hour from when my grandchild originally viewed the list, several people in the lunch room came up to her to tell her they were sorry, but they saw her name on the list along with one of her friends."

"They went to the guidance counselor's office - Ms. McCarthy - who spoke to them for maybe 10 minutes and sent them back to their classes. I can tell you that (neither) the school nor the police questioned my grandchild or the grandchild's friend, who was on the list to ask any questions of what happened, what they saw, who had the list... no investigation whatsoever."

"My grandchild spent 11 days out of school after this list was published with the school telling her mother and I that we have to just trust them - there is no risk and that they've handled this - with no definition of what they've done to keep anything or anyone safe. Since my grandchild has been back, this "tween girl and perpetrator of the list" has twice now apologized to her knowing she's in a raft of trouble."

Grandmother Pointe says, "(As of May 28th), my daughter (the mother) has not yet received a call from the school, Superintendent or the Police in response to this situation."

Scott Laliberte told us, "I have verified that LMS administrators have followed all applicable policies and procedures in the handling of this situation, including assessing behavioral consequences that are consistent with their findings. All parents of students involved were contacted by LMS administrators within timeframes required by our policies."

"Where behavioral records are considered to be a part of students' overall academic record, the contents of those records are protected under FERPA (Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act) in the same manner as their grades or other personal academic information - no employee of the District will discuss student-specific information of a disciplinary matter with anyone, but the parents of that student and other school officials with a compelling reason to know. I can say that appropriate discipline has been administered where it was warranted."

Laliberte summed up the situation, "I believe that school officials and law enforcement acted quickly and appropriately to the situation."

We have contacted Grandmother Deb Pointe and have yet not received an updated statement about the follow-up in time for this story deadline.

et gets that far. Szemplinski asked if there was some other way that the project could be modified as a compromise. He offered to shave five feet off the back of the building. Byerly pointed out that the Commission had already compromised by supporting the wetland application for the driveway, but that the size of the retail-office building was pushing too far. The Commission gave unanimous feedback that the building needed to be modified to stay out of the wetland and its buffer.

The Commission also reviewed a dredge & fill application for a proposed project of Bellavance Beverage Company who are looking to build a 141,765-square-foot warehouse and distribution facility on Pettengill Road next to FedEx.

Jim Petropolis of Hayner Swanson represented Bellavance. He said that as part of the project 5,225 square feet of wetland would be impacted by installing a parking lot in the front of the building. He added that with the initial building in place, 70% of the property would be open space.

As part of the plan Bellavance envisioned a possible future expansion that would roughly double the size of the facility. Petropolis said that if the expansion were built, 50% of the property would be open space. That potential expansion played a major role in the discussion with the Commission.

Commissioners Gene Harrington, Jocelyn Demas and Mike Byerly questioned Petropolis about the possibility of moving the front parking area to the sides of the building, so as to avoid the wetland. Petropolis said that if they did that, then they would lose the flexibility to build an addition in the future.

That did not satisfy Harrington and Demas and in a rare non-unanimous vote, the Commission voted 5-2 to support the dredge and fill application.

Resident Frustrated With Town Manager's Lack of Communication

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

During the Public Comment section at the Town Council meeting which was held on Monday, June 17, Rob Boyce, who stated that he has lived on Grove Street, in Londonderry since 1967, approached the council with a legal problem.

Boyce said that back in 2014 the town took legal action against him after multiple issues were found in his property. He said, a few unregistered vehicles were in the yard, there were problems with his fence and pool and things that were sitting in his driveway. He said that he cleared and fixed everything until the town said it was in compliance and the legal action against him was stopped. He added that when the incident happened, his brother, who controls the trust where the house is located, threatened to evict him.

In Feb. 2018, Boyce said that once again he was noticed that he was facing action by the town, for breaking some ordinances. Since he believed that he was able to clean everything needed by 2017, before the town's deadline, he was suggested to talk to the Town Manager, Kevin Smith, and see if an agreement could be found.

Boyce told the council that he had met with Smith in Feb. 2018 and explained that everything has been already cleared from his property. At the end of their meeting, Boyce said that Smith wanted them to have another meeting, this time with Code Enforcement, to make sure the incident does not happen again in the future. Boyce agreed to have that meeting, as he himself wanted to ask some questions.

At that point, according to Boyce, he stopped hearing from Smith and despite leaving his contact information at the Town Manager's office several times, never received a call to try and schedule the second appointment. He also said that in two occasions, in May and September, he started having problems again with his neighbor regarding his driveway. Mr. Boyce claimed that his life was threatened and that police became involved in the matter.

In April, according to Boyce, he received a summons, with no warning, call or notice of violation ahead of it. The summons said there were unregistered cars in the yard again. Boyce said that he had one car which was registered, but did not have the plate, as it was not on the road. He purchased a second car and it took him two days to put the temporary plate on it, but this was shown as evidence against him in the summons he received. "It's not like I'm running a junkyard there", told Boyce to the council members and added that the inspector came on the property without the home owner's knowledge.

Boyce was also told he has to pay the legal fees for the court and sign a declaration that he will be in code for two years, which he claims to be already doing. He added that when he was eventually able to meet with Smith, the Town Manager said during the meeting: "I didn't call him back. My bad."

Boyce asked the town council to ask the Town Attorney to stop the legal action against him, as he is making progress in cleaning his yard: "I'm one man and I lost my job shortly after all this started", he said. "I may lose my house over this."

In response, the council's Chairman, John Farrell, told Boyce: "I can't fix it or take a step on it tonight. My understanding is that this is something that has been going on for numerous years. We can ask the Town Manager to talk to the Town Attorney and see if we can work with the court, based on the progress you have made. Once we file the complaint, it's in the court's hands and there not a lot that we can do. We can withdraw, but we are not going to, because the other people in town that pay taxes have right too. The court system is very fair."

Murder Suspect, William Argie, Has Previous Arrest Record

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Londonderry resident William Argie, who was arrested on June 7, and charged with second-degree murder of his wife, Maureen Argie, has been arrested before, for pointing his gun at another motorist, while driving on Interstate 93.

The incident happened on Dec. 18, 2017 and Argie was charged for reckless conduct with a deadly weapon. According to the court records, at 10:14 p.m. that day, he was driving northbound on the interstate, in Windham and as he passed a truck driver, he stuck his handgun out of the window and pointed it at the driver.

The truck driver called the police, but was not able to give the correct plate number for Argie's vehicle. The truck driver could only give a description of the car. However, a few minutes later an officer recognized the vehicle and stopped Argie on the side of the road. In his investigation, Argie claimed that the truck driver cut him off twice as the lane narrowed and that he felt threatened after the second time and wanted to protect himself. He also said the he never took the handgun out of its case.

Argie was released on $5,000 personal recognizance bail and as part of his agreement with the court, had to sell his gun and was prohibited from possessing any firearms for a two-year suspension period. He was sentenced to 25 hours of community service, which he successfully completed at the Sunshine Soup Kitchen in Derry. He also received proof of continued mental health counseling after several meetings with Dr. Richard DiNapoli.

Argie, 46, was arrested earlier this month, over two months after police had found his deceased wife while conducting a welfare check in their home, at 118 West Road, Londonderry. He was charged by the police with two alternative counts of second-degree murder, one for knowingly causing the death of his wife by strangling and/or smothering her and the other for recklessly causing her death under circumstances of manifesting an extreme indifference of the value of human life, by strangling and/or smothering her.

Jeffery Strelzin, the Associate Attorney General at the New Hampshire Attorney General office, said in a phone interview, that the reason there are two alternative counts is that often there is an overlap of criminal conduct with more than one criminal statute and since prosecutors do not know exactly how the evidence will play out at trial, they will often bring more than one version of a charge at a time. A defendant can only be punished for one version if convicted of both.

DMV Will Be Open Saturdays For Real ID Transactions

MELISSA BETH RUIZ
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Every United States citizen is used to going through the steps to what it takes to fly, and a good number of other Americans understand what is needed to enter federal facilities. Albeit somewhat tiresome, obtaining a passport is not terribly difficult all things considered, and having certain military or federal clearances is often earned through certain occupations and rank.

But what if there was an all-in-one way to travel, without the risk of forgetting a separate document such as a passport?

As of October 1 of 2020, a REAL ID Driver's License or Non-Driver Identification card will be required to board an airplane for domestic flights or to enter a secure federal facility, says the New Hampshire Division of Motor Vehicles.

In 2005, Congress passed the REAL ID Act, which enacted the 9/11 Commission's recommendation that the Federal Government "Set standards for the issuance of sources of identification, such as driver's licenses."

This Act established minimum security standards for state-issued driver's licenses and identification cards, prohibiting Federal agencies from accepting for official purposes any cards from states that do not meet these standards.

This ID will have a star icon in the upper right hand corner to differentiate it from non-federally compliant forms of identification.

Though REAL ID is voluntary in New Hampshire, it should be considered for those without a passport or other federal identification who wish to fly domestically and enter a military base or courthouse.

"Many of our customers that travel by air or need entry into federal buildings find the convenience of a REAL ID compliant license very helpful." Said Larry Crowe, Public Information Officer of the New Hampshire DMV.

For those who do not wish to get a REAL ID card, a driver's license or non-driver ID card will simply indicate "Not for Federal Identification." A separate form of federally compliant identification, such as a passport, will still be required to board a domestic flight or federal facility.

This card-based enforcement will not require individuals to present identification where it is not currently required in order to access a Federal facility (in order to access public areas of the Smithsonian, for example), nor does it prohibit an agency from accepting other forms of identity documents other than documents from non-compliant states.

To help make REAL ID services more accessible, several NH DMV locations will be open from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. the second Saturday of each month for REAL ID transactions only. These transactions can also be conducted at these locations during regular weekday hours.

The NH DMV locations that will be able to assist with REAL ID transactions are Concord, Manchester, Nashua, Newport, Dover, and Twin Mountain.

Additional documentation proving identity and New Hampshire residence is required when applying for a REAL ID, along with a social security card. All documents should be gathered prior to visiting the DMV. Any name changes due to marriage, divorce, adoption, etc will require related documentation at the time of transaction.

There is no additional charge for a REAL ID. However, should it be misplaced or it is not up for renewal, a $3 replacement fee will be charged.

For more detailed information on required documents for obtaining a REAL ID and for further related information, visit www.getREAL.nh.gov.

open the ceremony, followed by Londonderry High School Principal Jason Parent welcoming those attending the school's 40th graduating class, saying, "The Class of 2019 was one of the nicest students he has ever been associated with, and left an indelible mark on Lancer Nation."

Parent shared that there were 211 graduates with gold medallions, the school's New Hampshire Scholars, 62 were graduating with a cumulative grade point average of 4.0 or higher, and 90 percent of the graduates were accepted into colleges and universities.

Parent also honored 28 graduates going on to serve in the military, who were met with a standing ovation.

The Class of 2019 Valedictorian, Jocelyn Mayo, nervously made her way to the stage a podium and addressed her classmates, saying, "Don't be afraid to try new things." She also quoted Anne Frank, saying "Human greatness does not lie in wealth or power, but in character and goodness."

Mayo finished by adding, "Always stay true to your character."

The Class of 2019 President, Elizabeth Iaconis, explained to her classmates that her journey through the Londonderry School system was like drive through the streets of Londonderry.

"You take different turns and end up in different places with different obstacles, different hobbies and different people, but you will never forget the journeys down these roads in Londonderry."

The senior Class had their turn on the arena stage as they presented the Class Gift, a new Graduation Banner and a patio at the school.

Alex-Ruben Quitongan and Saba Awan were next to be welcomed to the stage, with Alex singing "Wherever I Go" with Saba on guitar.

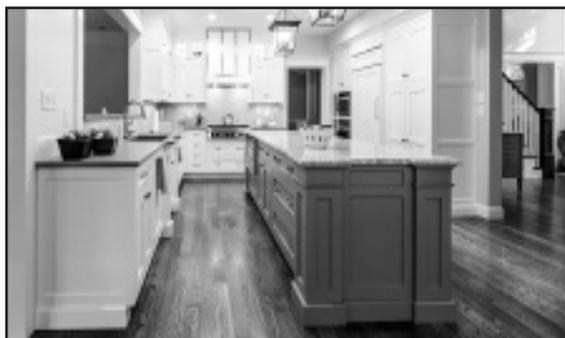

Superintendent of Schools, Scott Laliberte presented the Senior Class just before School Board members took turns handing out diplomas to the class, while Principal Parent congratulated each student.

Two highlights during the presentation of the diplomas was when Nicholas Stebbins made his way across the stage without the help of his wheelchair.

Bella Tucker, who lost her limbs as an eight-year-old, was all smiles as she accepted her diploma.

After a very quick changing of the tassels, and huge round of applause, the new graduates made their way out of the arena to family and friends waiting on Elm Street

Woodmont Senior Community Attracts Many to Grand Opening

The Baldwin Welcome Center officially opened its doors during a Grand Opening event earlier this month, with over 150 attendees. Using an interactive kiosk, guests learned more about the intellectual engagement, lifestyle and floor plan choices The Baldwin will offer. About 26 people signed up to be members of the Core Club, a founders group offering special perks and benefits for the community's founding residents. The

Baldwin is slated to open in 2021 and will be Londonderry's first continuing care community located adjacent to Woodmont Commons. As part of its "live, work, play" ethos, this brand-new community strives to be the place where residents can live the life they want, where they want. Lancer Junior Nolan Lincoln Gets His Chance and Shines

LONDONDERRY TIMES

Nolan Lincoln answers his phone shortly after his American Legion team lost at home during their season opener to Exeter, 5-1. "It's just a championship game hangover. We'll be fine," he promises.

Lincoln, a 17-year-old junior at Londonderry High School, pitched two complete games last week. In the state semifinals at Holman Stadium on Tuesday, June 4, he had six strikeouts, leading the Lancers to a 4-1 victory over the number one seed in the tournament, Concord High School. Six days later, at the Fisher Cats stadium in Manchester, he fanned four batters and didn't allow a single run, or even a runner on third base, as the Lancer Varsity Baseball team got a 1-0 win over Bedford High School and its first state title in five years.

The amazing thing is that Lincoln, who just finished his junior year, wasn't even on the varsity team last year. He only played JV and after the championship game, his coach Brent Demas said, "The Fall Baseball guys told me he is going to be a stud this year and that is exactly what he has been. A stud."

Lincoln admits that at first, the change was pretty big, "The learning curve was tough and long. I started the season playing only against the weaker teams and was trying to build my fastball. Later in the season, I was able to add my second and third pitches and try them more. I gain confidence."

He realized he could do it with a regular season win over Exeter, earlier this spring: "I pitched pretty well during the first four innings and to be honest, the coach almost took me out of the game. I convinced him to let me stay, played until the end and we won 3-2. Coach Demas helped me so much this season and surrounded me with some amazing coaches, like Keith Renaud, who taught me how to be a pitcher, not a thrower. He trusted me and put the ball in my hands."

Lincoln had almost a full week to rest and prepare for the state finals: "I worked a lot on the mental side. My coach Keith gave me some things to do in the Bullpen just before the game, so I would be able to play good from the first inning, because sometimes earlier in the season I had a hard time with my velocity in the opening innings."

Another tip came from his father Peter, "He listened to a podcast about the adrenalin that is running through our bodies before a big event. You don't want to push it away or fight it, because that is how you become nervous. You want to except it and let your body use it."

He was also able to enjoy some "family time" just before the game, as his younger sister Maya, who sang the National Anthem at the DI Final, "It was very comforting actually. She was worried about it during the entire week leading to the game. I knew this was a big moment for her and I think she did a perfect job. It showed me that if she can do it, so can I, and before the biggest game of my life so far, it certainly helped."

Finally, he knows next year will be an even a bigger challenge, "Every team in the state would circle the game against us in their calendars. We had a chip on our shoulder this year, because everyone thought we'll be somewhere in the middle of the pack, nothing more than that. Personally, I know that I have to work hard now to stay on top. We have a lot of leaders on the team, but obviously, with the seniors leaving, I will show some leadership too next year. I want to show the younger kids who are coming in what's it like being a varsity player for Londonderry High School. I want to teach them about the experience and the way they should carry themselves."

LMS Softball Team Enjoys Successful and Productive Season

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

One of the leading teams at the Londonderry Middle School this spring season was the Softball L Team, coached by Brendan Burns. The team finished the regular season with eight wins and three losses and got all the way to the Division I Tri-County Finals.

“We are lucky enough to have two softball teams at our middle school”, says coach Burns in a phone conversation with the Londonderry Times. “We have the M team, the younger girls, playing in Division IV and the L team, the older girls, in Division I and that is a very tough division. Almost everyone can beat everyone there, so our record and the fact we made it to the final are big achievements for us.”

Burns, who had four seven-graders and seven eighth-graders on his team this season, explains that most girls in Division I teams also play competitive softball outside of the school: “I believe that each one of our players will end up playing for our high school teams. Our softball program is very strong these days and I look forward to the future. Our job is to make sure the kids are good student and also, prepare them to play softball in the high school level.”

Burns says that his team’s best games this season were two losses actually: “There is a team from Woodbury Middle School in Salem. They finished the season undefeated and won the championship in the tournament. They averaged over 15 runs per game this season, but when we played them, we only lost 6-3 in the regular season and 8-4 in the championship game. We gave them the best fight they got this season, twice.”

Another memorable game was against Elm Street Middle School from Nashua, where Londonderry came back from a three run deficit with two outs in the seventh inning to win the game: “That was a turning point,” reflects Burns. “That’s where the girls Londonderry Middle School Softball L Team made it to the Division I Tri-County Finals this year, where they came up just short of a title in a 8-4 loss.

understood they have to play the entire seven innings.”

The team roster this season was: Sam Daniels, Sarah Woodruff, Shannon Hynes, Emily Goldberg, Riley Burns, Lauren Laudani, Madison Saucier, Sydney Rankin, Sarah Peckham, Melanie Nadreau and Sofia Tringali.

LHS Longtime Softball Coach MacDougall Announces His Retirement

LONDONDERRY TIMES

After 31 years with Londonderry High School Softball teams, nine of them with the Junior Varsity team and 22 with the Varsity team, longtime coach, Wayne MacDougall, officially announced his retirement in a meeting with Howard Sobolov, the school’s Director of Athletics. MacDougall retires with 305 wins and only 163 losses, and three championship game appearances.

“I had a very satisfying coaching career at Londonderry High School,” MacDougall said in a phone conversation held shortly after his announcement. “I was very lucky, because I had great athletes and more important, great kids. Together, we have won a lot of games over the years and we had a lot of fun. I hope I was able to leave something behind for all the girls. I never had any troubles with a player and that was why I kept doing this, year after year.”

After leading the Lady Lancers to the number 1 seed in Division I in back-to-back years, MacDougall had plans to retire after last spring season, but the coach who was supposed to replace him, decided in the last minute that she couldn’t take the position, so he agreed to continue for one more year, and let the school begin the searching process again. He was able to get his 300th career win as a coach this spring, but after the team (a ninth seed) lost to Merrimack in the first round, he knew it was time to go.

This extra year did give him a chance to work with his daughter Jenn, who was in charge of the game books, “It was fun working with her, a great experience. We had a very nice bond thanks to this, and it allowed us to spend some time together, time that we didn’t always have in the past. I think she was really looking forward to each game. She brought the kids candy every time and she had fun doing the book. But for me, 31 years is more than enough.”

MacDougall plans to spend most of his time now in Florida, playing golf and in a seniors softball team (over 55) there, but promises he will still visit Londonderry every once in a while.

When asked about his best moment as a coach, he cannot select just one and answers, “There were so many, that it’s hard to choose. Every state semifinals win that got us to the championship game was big. But maybe the best moment was the first time I coached varsity, in 1997. That was a great day for me.”

Lancer Alumni Make Their Mark at Local Colleges^a

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

With the college spring season in the books, the Londonderry Times takes the opportunity to check on the performances of local athletes in New Hampshire colleges and universities.

Southern New Hampshire University Women's Lacrosse: Catherine Derhak. The freshman attacker enjoyed a pretty good first season with the Penmen. She played in 16 games, 12 as a starter and scored seven goals, while also contributing eight assists for a total of 15 points, sixth best on her team. Her best game was a 20-11 win over Bridgeport, where she scored three times and added an assist. The team's 7-10 record was not enough to qualify for the tournament.

University of New Hampshire Women's Track and Field: Natalie Howes. On May 11, the junior finished 17th in Javelin Throw at the New England Outdoor Championship, with a result of 34.96 meters. A week prior to that, she took second place at the America East Outdoor Championship, thanks to a great 40.87 throw.

Dartmouth Men's Track and Field: Timothy Zepf. Originally from Londonderry, the former Trinity High School athlete finished 21 in the 800 Meter semifinals at the NCAA Division I East Region Preliminary Rounds, held on May 25, after running a time of 1:52.57. At the Ivy League Outdoor Championship, earlier in May, Zepf placed sixth in the finals thanks to a 1:51.46 run. He was fourth in the preliminaries with a great result: 1:49.51.

Plymouth State University Baseball: Geoff Kayo and Jimmy Zimolka. Kayo, in his senior year, had 28 hits, including two home runs and 24 RBIs and batted .267. He also had nine appearances as a reliever, pitching for 12 innings and allowing 17 earned runs. Zimolka, a junior outfielder, led his team in at-bats (149) and had 43 hits, four home runs and 31 RBIs, while hitting .289. A 14-23 record left the Panthers out of the playoffs.

Women's Lacrosse: Sarah Jackes and Faye Brown. The two defenders were part of a strong team, who won the Little East Tournament and qualified for the NCAA Division III's second round. Jackes, a junior, had 14 groundballs and 12 caused turnovers in 18 games, while Brown, a sophomore, finished with 25 groundballs and 17 caused turnovers and also participated in 18 contests, all as a starter.

New England College Softball: Emily Nelson. The catcher/infielder freshman had 21 hits during her first season with the team. She played in 25 games and drove in 15 runs, while batting for .309. Her best game was against Lesley, where she had three hits and four RBIs. The team went 30-8, the school's best record ever, and lost in the NECC Championship Game.

Baseball: Shane McNamara. Another freshman, the infielder played in 21 games, three as a starter, and got eight hits and four RBIs with a .267 batting average. He also pitched for 2 1/3 innings, allowing six earned runs. The team finished with a 29-18 record and won the NECC Championship for the first time ever. The Pilgrims qualified from the NCAA Regional Championship to the Super Regional, where they lost in three games to UMass Boston.

Franklin Pierce University Baseball: Ricky Perry. The former three time All-State player for the Lancers played in 10 games during his freshman year. He had a single hit and drew eight walks in 19 plate appearances. The Ravens finished with a 29-24 record, won the Northeast 10 championship and played three games in the NCAA Tournament.

Men's Track and Field: Trevor Guay. The junior hurdler finished sixth overall in the 400 Meter Hurdles at the New England Outdoor Championship, held in New Haven, CT on May 11. He qualified with the fourth best time (53.90 seconds) and ran 54.24 in the finals. A week before, he was the Northeast 10 runner up with a time of 53.45.

Saint Anselm College Women's Lacrosse: Breda Holland. The junior attacker was third on her team with 31 goals and tied for third with 42 total points. She was a starter for all 16 games, as the team finished with a 7-9 record and did not qualify for the postseason.

Keene State College Men's Lacrosse: Dave Wiedenfeld, Alex Fawcett and Jordan Caito. Three Londonderry athletes, two of them (Junior midfielder Wiedenfeld and sophomore goalkeeper Fawcett) came from Londonderry High School, while sophomore attacker Caito graduate from Bishop Guertin. The Owls went 11-6, won the Little East championship and lost in the NCAA Tournament's second round.

Wiedenfeld and Caito each finished the championship game with two goals, while Fawcett made three saves. Overall, Wiedenfeld was second on the team with 34 goals and led with 39 assists and 73 points. Caito scored 17 goals and Fawcett, who played in seven games, made 10 saves.

Women's Lacrosse: Chelsea Lewis and Meghan Jackes. Lewis, a senior attacker, finished her career as the Owls' all-time leading scorer in free-position plays. She is tied for seventh in the school's all-time goal scorers list and is ranked ninth in points. She was second in goals (43) and points (54) this season. Jackes, a freshman attacker, played 11 games and came from the bench in all of them, scoring three times. The team won eight of the 16 regular season games and lost in the Little East Semifinals.

Rivier University Men's Lacrosse: Corey Hicks. The defender had a good personal freshman year, playing 13 times, 10 as a starter and scoring twice. He had 26 groundballs and caused 16 turnovers, tied for second on the team. He went 25-for-53 in face-offs. The Raiders had a great 12-4 record, but lost to Lasell in the GNAC Tournament Semifinal.

Colby-Sawyer College Baseball: Danny McCrystal. With 25 hits, the sophomore catcher was fifth on his team. His batting average was .284 and he also had a team-leading 18 RBIs. McCrystal played in 32 games as the team went 7-28.

Senior Legion Post 27 Team Drops First Two to Start Season

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

The local American Legion Baseball senior's started their season on Wednesday, June 12, in Londonderry, where the home team lost 5-1 to Exeter.

On Monday, Jun. 17, Londonderry American Legion Post 27 lost its second game of the season as well, 2-0 to Derry

Post 9 at the Pinkerton Academy's diamond.

Two days after the Londonderry High School Varsity Baseball Team won the Division I state title, most of the players wore the Post 27 uniform and faced Exeter. But Londonderry had to play without two of its best players, Pitcher Nolan Lincoln, who pitched in the state finals and was unavailable due to that game, also senior Reece Manor was unavailable.

That proved to be costly for Londonderry, who scored a run in the first inning with the lead-off man Nick Cote hitting for a triple and safely reaching home plate after Luke Marsh single, but was not able to score any more runs for the rest of the game. In fact, Londonderry finished with only three hits, as Exeter's pitchers got 11 strikeouts. The visitors scored twice in the third and one more run in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings.

The second game of the season was not much better for Londonderry, as the team only had two hits, singles by Sean Cavanaugh and Zach Luongo in the away loss to the Derry Post 9 contingent. Derek Hiscox pitched five innings for Derry and Alex Barbuto got the two-inning save. Manor also participated on Monday morning in the New Hampshire - Maine senior's All-Star game, which ended with the Maine team winning 5-4. He batted in the final inning.

The Londonderry Senior team was scheduled to play its second home game, against Rochester, on Tuesday evening, after the Londonderry Times went to print and will host Derry on Thursday, June 20, at 5:30 p.m. and Portsmouth on Friday, June 21, also at 5:30 p.m.

Londonderry Junior Legion Team Starts with Losing Streak

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Londonderry's Junior team started the 2019 American Legion Baseball League with three straight losses, sending the team to the bottom of the standing very quickly.

On the league's opening day, Wednesday, June 12, the Londonderry Post 27 team traveled to Portsmouth for a doubleheader, which ended with two one-run disappointing losses, 6-5 and 2-1.

In the first game, Sam Dicicco pitched for 2 1/3 innings, striking out four of Portsmouth's players. He left the game without allowing any runs. Jake Holdsworth replaced him and pitched 2 2/3 innings, allowing an earned run and fanning three batters. Zach Smith finished the game with 1 2/3 inning and three strikeouts, with no earned runs allowed. Braeden Griffin, Justin Dickson and Gavin Parent provided RBIs.

Holdsworth had the only RBI in the second game, and Londonderry enjoyed a good pitching performance, which was not enough to win. Kolby Begin went four innings, allowing just two hits and striking out four. Parent pitched the next two innings, did not allow a run and had three strikeouts.

Londonderry's home opener, on Monday, June 17, against Hudson, ended in a 10-4 loss after a bunch of errors by the home team's players. Adam Wholley started the game and pitched pretty well for Londonderry. He was later replaced by Griffin and Smith. The team finished with 10 hits, but was not able to keep Hudson's offense at bay.

Londonderry was scheduled to host Newmarket on Tuesday and to play at Dover on Wednesday, after the Londonderry Times went to print. Next week starts with a home game against Raymond on Monday, June 24, starting at 5:30 p.m.

Londonderry 50+ Softball League Starts Heating Up

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Fighting through multiple rainouts in their first few weeks of the season, the Londonderry 50+ Softball League teams were eventually able to get things going and by Tuesday, June 11, the standings already had a clearer look.

Justin Time Snacks (AKA Eagles) quickly emerged as the five-team league's best team, winning all five games it played so far and collecting 15 points.

Efficient Energy Systems has the second spot right now, with two wins and two losses, good for six points.

Three teams are tied with three points each: Birch Tree Counseling Center, American Nationals (who played only three games and not four) and Rocco's Pizza. The games are usually played on Tuesday nights at the lower LAFA Field, with make-up dates on Sundays.

On June 4, Efficient Energy Systems won their game against Rocco's Pizza, 18-14 and the Eagles easily handled Birch Tree Counseling Center with a 16-4 victory.

On Sunday, Jun. 9, the Eagles were victorious once more, but this time had to work much harder before beating Efficient Energy Systems 12-11.

In the second game that day, Birch Tree Counseling Center got a thrilling 17-16 win over American Nationals. The last games so far were held on Tuesday, Jun. 11, with Rocco's Pizza getting their first win of the season, 18-17 over Birch Tree Counseling Center and the Eagles scoring 15 runs against American Nationals, who only managed to answer with nine.

Red Sox Pride: Openly Gay Ground Crew Member Shares Story

IDAN VINITSKY
LONDONDERRY TIMES

Next month, Steven Guertin, will get his World Series Championship ring. "I want one for each finger, or more. Like Tom Brady."

Guertin is part of the Boston Red Sox Grounds Crew, the people who make sure, every day, the Fenway Park field is ready to play and the fans can enjoy the best experience. "People have been great on the crew. They are some of my best friends. They received me very well and were welcoming, with me being the only openly gay member on the crew," he said, as he speaks in an interview in the stands of the famous ballpark during one of his workdays, for a special story for pride month, which is being celebrated throughout the month of June all around the world.

Guertin, 21, was born in Boston and moved to Londonderry when he was 10 years old. "My family thought it was the best thing to do. Better schools, better place for my mom to raise her kids." He attended Mathew Thornton Elementary School, Londonderry Middle School and Londonderry High School and graduated three years ago. He worked retail in a few malls in New Hampshire and after the store was shut down, Guertin took a few months off work and tried to get his license in real estate. That's when he received a phone call from a childhood friend who grew up with him in Boston.

"My friend has been working with the grounds crew for a year and called me to say they need more people. He knew I am a big sports guy." Guertin did not have previous experience in landscaping, but was able to learn quickly: "They teach us everything we need to know here, because we have to make sure everything is perfect, for every single game."

It did not take long for Guertin to fall in love with the work: "I never knew exactly what I wanted to do with my life until I stumbled on this position. I fell in love with baseball all over again." He was always a fan, but says that he never truly appreciated the game as much as he does now, since becoming part of the Red Sox family. "It's a whole new love of the game for me. I almost feel I am part of the team. I am part of the team!"

On game days, you could find him working on the field from 7 a.m. ("Or 6:30 if the tarp is on after a rainy night") and during the game, he waits in the little hallway next to first base, waiting for the end of the third, fifth and seventh innings, when the crew goes out to do some instant fixing. "My favorite job is to broom third base, because you cross the field with 35,000 Red Sox fans in the stands. You try to keep your head down and focus on the work, because you only have about 90 seconds."

He says that the most rewarding part of the job is watching the game happen every night and knowing the he was able to take part in it, especially after winning the World Series last year. He also enjoys taking the tarp off the field after a rain delay: "When we put it on during a game, we get booed by the fans. The best feeling in the world is when we run out to take it off. The fans are cheering like crazy, like we just had a walk-off grand slam. They know they'll be watching more baseball in the next few minutes."

On a personal level, Guertin says he never had a single issue since joining the crew: "I applaud

Londonderry native Steven Guertin stands on the Green Monster overlooking the grounds that he helps care for. Photo Idan Vinitsky them for being so accepting and warm to me. The fact that I am openly gay became well known early on. We make conversations and get to know each other, because we work a lot together during the season and hang out after the games as well. Our friendship doesn't remain only in the ballpark. I am fully comfortable here. It is a great place to work for me and I feel at home. I love coming to work every day."

Guertin says that he has great respect for professional athletes who identified themselves as gay over the recent years: "I admire them. They are brave. I know that sometimes there is a stigma in the locker rooms and I see that now players are feeling more comfortable. Seeing guys who are under the spotlight all the time, with very public life and are not afraid to come out and reveal the personal side of them, the part that some people aren't expecting to see, it makes me feel more comfortable with myself. Hopefully this continues forward and we can see more of it."

Classified Advertising

READERS ARE CAUTIONED that we occasionally run ads that require an initial investment or money in advance. We urge our readers to "do their homework" before responding to any ad, check out the advertiser thoroughly and verify their claims to your total satisfaction. Only then should you proceed at your own risk. We try to screen ads that require you to send money before receiving a product or service. But these efforts are no substitute for your own investigation, and we don't endorse or guarantee any claims made in any of the ads we publish. If you want more information about claims made in ads on subjects such as work at home opportunities, travel or vacation specials, purchasing land or vehicles from government surplus or below wholesale, loans or other credit opportunities (including credit repair), or weight loss and other health products and services, we urge you to contact the Office of Attorney General, Consumer Protection Bureau, 33 Capitol Street, Concord, NH 03301 (603-271-3641) or the Better Business Bureau at 603-224-1991. Publisher is not responsible for any loss of business if an ad does not run, and we reserve the right to revoke any ad if deemed necessary. No refunds will be given for prepaid ads.
